MAIL MURDER

The five men seated in the living room of the country house of John P. Alter had one thing in common. They were all expert killers — tops in their field. Mike Santos and Lou Getter could handle tommy guns with deadly precision; Gene Bartos could throw a grenade better than you could a baseball; Slim Jugis could blast his way out of any situation with an automatic shotgun; and Frank Dee was an expert marksman with a .45 automatic.

"Why do you think Mr. Alter sent for us?" asked Mike. "It must be something big. And since we are all here, it looks as though he must have a lot of killing planned."

The underworld had a lot of respect for the man who could plan a big crime and get away with it. They always put the "Mr." before his name. And Mike Santos voiced his thoughts.

"Bet it goes into a lot of dough. We should get at least thirty grand for our work."

The door of the living room opened, and a dignified man walked in. He was tall, with jet black hair that had a touch of gray at the temples and a smooth face. His suit came from the best tailor in the city.

"If you will follow me downstairs to my workshop," he announced, "we can get started at once. However, I will satisfy you about two points: You will have to kill five men; and your share of the enterprise will amount to $30,000 each."

Downstairs in the recreation room the men all gathered around a long table. On it were toy cars and small cardboard buildings. The table was marked into streets and definitely was a reproduction of some actual layout.

"The corner building is the United States Post Office," began Mr. John P. Alter. "As a result of the many paymaster robberies in this city, a new safe system has been devised to deliver the cash to factories and offices. The largest Post Office truck is used to deliver the money. It is followed by a police prowler with two officers. There are one driver and two guards on the truck. We kill all of them. Simple as that!"

"But how are you going to get the truck to stop?" asked Mike Santos. "And how will you get the men out of the truck?"

"I have given much attention to that," replied Mr. John P. Alter, "and I have something entirely new. Never been used before in the field of crime. The windshield wiper will be tampered with so that it doesn't work. A large cement mixer truck will be driving ahead of the Post Office truck. This cement mixer truck is run on Diesel fuel, and the exhaust comes out from a pipe. When it hits the air, drops of water will be formed. In case you ever studied chemistry, which I doubt, you might know that you can make water with hydrogen and oxygen. The oxygen is in the air and the hydrogen comes from that exhaust. The driver will have to stop his Post Office truck and clean the window. The police car will stop to see what is wrong. That is when you blast them off this earth."

Sergeant Donald Campbell was at the wheel of the police car. He had something on his mind, and he expressed himself to his friend, Officer Peter Mertz. "My father-in-law is becoming a problem. Elsie and I were arguing about him last night. The old man hardly has a sober minute. He spends all his cash for drink. I think I will contact some social group and see what they can do for me."

"That should be your only problem in life," replied Officer Peter Mertz. "Last night the wife and I went over the budget. No matter how we figure, somehow I'm always short at the end of the week. Hey, the truck stopped and the driver is getting down. We better see if anything is wrong."

Murry Cooper was puzzled as he stopped the big mail truck he had been driving. It was a beautiful sunny day and yet there was rain on his windshield. He found he was unable to use the automatic wiper because the blade stuck. So he stopped the car and spoke to the guard sitting next to him.

"Maybe it is a sunshower. I'll have to fix the windshield wiper. Otherwise I can't see where I am driving."

As he tried to climb over the hood of his motor to move the windshield wiper, a blast from an automatic shotgun finished him. A hand grenade tossed into the cab of the truck finished the two guards. Neither of the cops had a chance to fight. A machine gun blast mowed them both down. Seconds now were of vital importance as men and women in the street began to run and shriek for help.

CRIME AND JUSTICE

"Get the bags of money out from inside the truck and pass them to me," ordered Mr. John P. Alter. "We have to work fast before somebody calls for help."

With clock-like efficiency the killers looted the truck. Then they ran with the bags into a waiting sedan, which soon sped away. The car went but a quarter of a mile before entering a small, private two-car garage.

"You fellows will leave all your guns in the sedan," ordered Mr. John P. Alter. "Now you put on sportsman clothing and each takes a fishing rod and box of tackle. I have a false bottom in the suburban car. Open the bags quickly and place the money where I show you."

A fortune was soon transferred to the suburban car. Then the door to the garage opened, and the car was headed out to route 23-A, which led to Sommersville Lake. However, the car approached a road block.

"What do we do now," asked Mike Santos, who was sitting next to Mr. John P. Alter. "We aren't armed and can't put up a fight if trouble should begin."

"This is where my brains do the trick," replied Mr. John P. Alter, as he brought his car to a stop. "Keep quiet and let me do the talking."

An officer came up to the car, and Mr. John P. Alter simply asked what was wrong.

"Looking for a bunch of killers," replied the officer. "They were in a blue sedan. A woman got the first three letters of the license plate. The most cold-blooded crime I ever heard about in my time on the force. Killed five men. Stole a large cement mixer truck and with it blocked off a U.S. Mail truck."

"We are headed towards Sommersville Lake," said Mr. John P. Alter. "Do you think we should turn back. We wouldn't want to take a chance of meeting a group of killers."

"Go ahead and enjoy yourselves," replied the officer. "Not a chance in a million you'll meet them. And here's wishing you get the big fish and don't let him escape."

The car went through the road block and the officer stopped the next car and questioned the occupants. There were little beads of perspiration on Mike Santos' forehead.

"No wonder you are tops," he complimented the man at the wheel of the car. "I bet you could talk the Devil himself into anything you wanted him to do."

"It could be," replied Mr. John P. Alter with evident satisfaction in his voice. "We are going back to my summer place. There we will divide the money and make plans on how to stay out of the clutches of the law."

The car stopped at the entrance to the house. The six men started walking downstairs to the recreation room. Suddenly the door shut tight, and there were only five.

"Where is Mr. Alter?" shouted Lou Getter, as he tried to turn the knob of the door. Then he banged on it and screamed in agony.

"It's a steel door! The house has trapped us in here. He's got all the dough."

The men immediately pulled aside a curtain, and then made a terrible discovery. There wasn't a single window in that basement recreation room!

"He isn't just going to let us stay down here," shouted Frank Dee. "I bet that dirty dog is going to call the cops."

No sooner had he finished that last thought of his, then it became his last thought on this earth. A terrific explosion blew the building to pieces and killed the five men trapped below in the recreation room.

"A fine piece of planning," said John P. Alter to himself as he headed his car slowly down a steep road. "All that money for myself. I'll fly to South America and remain there the rest of my life."

When the car reached the bottom of the hill, he stepped on the gas. He rounded a curve at full speed — and then saw in front of him a large truck. The driver of the truck tried to stop, but it was too late. The truck smashed the suburban car as though it were made out of paper.

"He'll be dead within five minutes," said Dr. Willard Morrison to Captain John Simmonds. "You won't be able to question him. And to think he had all that money hidden in the car. I guess you figure he killed his fellow criminals."

"I'd like to be able to tell him there is Justice in this world," replied the police officer. "The truck that finished him was none other than the stolen cement mixer he used in the crime. It was being returned to its lawful owner at the time of the accident."

A SPOOF DEATH

CRIME AND JUSTICE

"TONIGHT I HAD SCRUBBED HIS WINE GLASS, MYSELF... SELECTED ONE OF HIS FAVORITE BOTTLES OF PORT, AND BROUGHT THEM HERE TO THE LIBRARY..."

AH, THE EVENING SEDATIVE FOR A SICK, OLD MAN, EH? PUT IT DOWN, CHILD...

YOU WASHED THE GLASS YOURSELF, OF COURSE? GOOD! NOW PLEASE INDULGE ME IN ANOTHER QUIRK... I LIKE TO MAKE CERTAIN THAT EACH GLASS OF WINE I DRINK IS POURED FROM A BOTTLE WHICH STILL BEARS ITS ORIGINAL SEAL!

JUST A PRECAUTION, MY DEAR. THIS BOTTLE LOOKS COMPLETELY SAFE... AND THE GLASS WHICH YOU WASHED IS PROBABLY... ER... RELIABLE! NOW THAT MY MIND'S AT EASE, I CAN ENJOY MY EVENING WINE!

YOU MAY HAVE NOTICED I DRINK ONLY ONCE FROM EACH BOTTLE... THE FIRST WINE POURED AFTER THE CORK HAS BEEN REMOVED! MY SERVANTS ARE GOOD, HARD WORKERS... BUT THE HUMAN MIND CAN BE STRANGE! ESPECIALLY WHEN IT INVOLVES SETTling OLD SCORES! AH... HERE COMES THE CORK!

SPARKLING... SUPERB!

FINISH YOUR DRINK AND GET TO BED, UNCLE JOHN! YOU KNOW WHAT THE DOCTOR SAID...

CRIME AND JUSTICE

THIS IS EDWARDS, THE GARDENER... PHELPS, UNCLE JOHN'S VALET... BRIGGS, THE BUTLER... AND THE NEW MAN, WENDELL. HE'S SORT OF GENERAL ASSISTANT TO ALL THE OTHERS...

GLAD TO MEET YOU, GENTLEMEN! I'VE BEEN ASKED TO TELL YOU THAT THE JUDGE WILL NO LONGER NEED YOUR SERVICES! BUT FIRST...

...HE ASKED ME TO OFFER EACH OF YOU A DRINK TO PAST ASSOCIATIONS! SORT OF A TOAST TO YOUR LOYALTY!

LET'S SEE, NOW... HE WANTED THE FIRST ONE TO DRINK TO BE THE LAST ONE TO JOIN HIS HOUSEHOLD! THAT MEANS MR. WENDELL, I IMAGINE...

HERE, MR. WENDELL! COMPLIMENTS OF JUDGE MALCOLM!

YOU... YOU WANT ME TO DRINK THAT STUFF?

I THINK YOU BETTER, MR. WENDELL! IT'S WHAT THE JUDGE WANTED...

SAY... WHAT IS THIS, ANYWAY? WHEN I DON'T WANT TO DRINK, I DON'T!

AND RIGHT NOW! I DON'T WANT TO DRINK NOTHING THAT BELONGED TO THAT CRUMMY JUDGE MALCOLM!

CRIME AND JUSTICE

YOU CAN'T PULL THE WOOL OVER MY EYES... YOU GUYS ARE COPS/I DON'T KNOW HOW YOU TUMBLED TO MY LITTLE STUNT...BUT YOU AREN'T GOING TO BE ABLE TO DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT, SEE?

THAT'S THE CONFESSION I WANTED, WENDELL!

DROP THAT GUN, WENDELL/ I'M GOING TO TAKE YOU IN ...

I - I'M WARNING YOU... THIS GUN'S LOADED!

THE GUN MAY BE LOADED, MISTER... BUT YOU'RE NOT USING IT!

STAND BACK... I WARN YOU... UGH!

IF THE REST OF YOU ARE WONDERING WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT, THE ANSWER'S SIMPLE... AND TRAGIC. WENDELL, HERE, WANTED REVENGE ON THE JUDGE ... AND SO HE POISONED HIM TONIGHT, BY REMOTE CONTROL!

THIS CORKSCREW IS THE WEAPON HE USED... AFTER LOADING IT WITH POISON. YOU SEE, THERE'S A PIN-POINT HOLE RUNNING FROM THE HANDLE RIGHT DOWN TO THE POINT/ WHEN THE JUDGE INSERTED IT INTO THE CORK, THE POISON DRIPPED INTO THE UNOPENED BOTTLE OF WINE!

I PICKED THE FIRST DRINKER AT RANDOM/ IF THE DRINK HAD BEEN ACCEPTED, I WAS PREPARED TO BREAK THE GLASS, ACCIDENTALLY/ BUT WENDELL REFUSED THE DRINK BECAUSE HE KNEW THE WINE WAS POISONED... AND HE KNEW HE'D BE GULPING A SIP OF DEATH!
